

BRITISH FORCES MEET GERMANS; CAPTURE OF NAMUR QUESTIONED, AUSTRIANS EVACUATE SERBIA

GENERAL FRENCH, COMMANDING ENGLISH TROOPS, IS OPTIMISTIC OVER PROSPECTS IN THE IMPENDING BATTLE AND LOOKS FOR VICTORY OF ALLIES IN FINAL BATTLE.

ALL IS QUIET NOW AT ANTWERP

No Disturbances Reported at Temporary Belgian Capital—Report Received That Forts At Namur Are Still Holding Out—Refugees Continue to Flee From Berlin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, August 27.—5:15 P. M.—From both sea and land there came today official reports considered here to be a promising augury for the future.

The German trans-atlantic steamer, Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, at one time one of the most popular vessels of the North German Lloyd line, sailing from New York, and one of the few German armed merchantmen which have been harrying Great Britain's trade route, has been put out of commission. She was sunk off the African coast by the British cruiser High Flyer.

From the continent Field Marshal Sir John French, commander in chief of the British expeditionary force, has been able to set at rest much of the anxiety caused in England by the vagueness of French official statements, regarding the movement of the armies in the locality where the British forces were known to be operating. His dispatch takes a rosier view of the prospects of the battle now in progress and pays a tribute to the mettle of his French ally.

Much of the apprehension felt here can be traced to the rigid censorship maintained by the British authorities. Two million men have been grappling in a titanic struggle for days past within a few hours' journey of London, yet so complete is the silence of those who are aware of what is going on that the public is in all but complete ignorance.

It is officially announced at St. Petersburg that the Russian advance in Prussia, is proceeding with irresistible force. It has been stated that the objective points of the main Russian army for the present is Posen. The Germans are represented as having retired to Osterode in East Prussia.

A merchant arriving in London from Berlin is credited with the statement that the trains are bringing many refugees to the German capital from Königsberg which city he claimed civilians had been advised to leave.

The Germans have occupied the French cities of Lille, Valenciennes and Roubaix, according to a dispatch from Ostend, Belgium, which passed through the hands of the censor at London. All three cities are situated within a few miles of the Belgian frontier and Lille is strongly fortified. Valenciennes is a military station of less importance, while Roubaix is known chiefly as a manufacturing center.

Early dispatches from Ostend quoted a Belgian officer as authority for the statement that the allies had decided not to defend Lille and that its evacuation by the French troops was announced by the mayor Tuesday.

The Belgium operations were asserted to have been completely successful in an official statement that came from Antwerp by way of Paris, a little after midnight. Four Belgian divisions from Namur were said to have stopped the southward movement of the German fourth division after which the Belgians retired on the French line.

The forts at Namur were still holding out, it was declared. This claim regarding the Namur fortifications was repeated later by an English correspondent at Ostend who quoted a Belgian officer who had arrived from Namur. He said the Germans had destroyed two forts and were still assaulting the others.

Prepares For Siege.
E. O. S. Bul, Paris, August 27.—3:52 P. M.—It was announced officially today Paris is preparing for a possible siege. The matter was discussed by the new minister of war, Alexandre Millerand, with the subordinates of his department, and steps were taken to determine the exact measure necessary to place the city in a state to withstand an attack and invasion.

M. Millerand will meet with the other officials of the war office every morning for the consideration of developments and every possible phase in connection with an entrenched camp such as the capital will become.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Aug. 27.—Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons today that Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary force, has reported that he was yesterday engaged against superior German forces. The British fought splendidly, and General French considered the prospects in the impending battle satisfactory.

Austrians Evacuate Sanjak.
A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Kragujevac, Serbia, declares that the Austrian army has evacuated the Sanjak of Novi-Pazar.

The Sanjak of Novi-Pazar is a strip of territory lying between Montenegro and Serbia. Up to the time of the Balkan war in 1913 it belonged to Turkey.

By the Berlin treaty of 1878 Austria-Hungary was empowered to garrison certain strategic points within the Sanjak, but these troops following the annexation by Austria of the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina were withdrawn.

During the Balkan wars Austria-Hungary again seized upon the occasion to occupy Sanjak, and this occupation in large measure served to neutralize the Serbian victories in those wars.

French Remain Optimistic.
Paris, Aug. 27.—An official statement issued this afternoon says: "The events yesterday in the region of the north have neither imperiled nor modified the arrangements made in view of the future developments of operations in the region between Vosges and Nancy."

"Our troops continue to progress," Aroused Over Attempt.

A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Antwerp says that the French, British and Russian ministers to Belgium went together to call on the Belgian minister of foreign affairs to express their indignation of what they termed the recent attempt of a German Zeppelin ship against the life of King Albert and other members of the Belgian royal family.

Quiet at Antwerp.
Washington, Aug. 27.—Official reports from Antwerp to the state department today say that the city is quiet, but that communication has been cut off from all points except Ghent and Bruges and certain points on the coast.

Wireless From Germany.
Washington, Aug. 27.—The German embassy received the following wireless from the foreign office at Berlin:

"Assistant Secretary Breckenridge has expressed his thanks to the German foreign office for its assistance in aiding the departure of Americans from Germany. A large number of British living in Vienna, it is learned here, have expressed their sympathy for Austria. The Russian defeat at Krasnik was caused by an irresistible Austrian infantry attack. The Russian main force is Russian Poland thus being defeated, a swift Austrian advance northward is expected."

"Vienna reports that Liman Pasha has been appointed commander in chief of the Turkish European troops. The small cruiser Madgeburg, entering the Finnish Bay, ran aground after a fight with superior forces and was blown up by her captain. Most of the crew were saved."

"A large number of prisoners, chiefly Turks (French African troops) and British soldiers, passed through Aix-Chapelle today."

Liman Pasha is the German military officer who was in charge of the reorganization of the Turkish army, having been loaned to Turkey for that purpose by Germany. The sinking of the Madgeburg was not described but it is supposed at the embassy that the battle was with some Russian vessel.

Leave Berlin.

Amsterdam, Aug. 27.—The Telegraf today says that a special train left Berlin yesterday carrying eight hundred Americans to Rotterdam, from which port they will return to the United States.

Seek Sargent.
London, Aug. 27.—Some anxiety is felt here concerning John Sargent, the American painter. Nothing has been heard from Mr. Sargent since he left London for Austria July 24. Friends and relatives are trying to get news of him through the American embassy.

Many Refugees.
Montreal, Aug. 27.—The Cunard steamer Andania arrived here this morning from London with 1,019 Canadian and American refugees from the European war zone.

Report Belgian Successes.
Antwerp, Aug. 28, via Paris, Aug. 27.—It is officially announced that the Belgium operations have been completely successful. They have the double object of reducing the German entrenchments and of drawing German troops from the line at Mechlin and Brussels, so that the pressure on the French positions. Four Belgian divisions from Namur stopped the southward advance of the German force division by obliging it to retrace its steps. The Belgian troops then retreated on the French line. The forts at Namur are still holding out.

Report German Victories.
London, Aug. 27.—A dispatch received here from Ostend says that the Germans have occupied Lille, Roubaix and Valenciennes, all in France.

Roubaix is five miles from the Belgium frontier and Lille and Valenciennes ten miles from the line. Roubaix is five miles northeast of Lille and Valenciennes is thirty miles southeast of the same city.

Lille is of great importance from a military point of view. It has a fortress of the first class and the circle of its forts is thirty miles.

Recent dispatches from Paris said that Lille is held by French reverts. Roubaix would appear not to be fortified. It is a manufacturing center. Valenciennes also is a manufacturing town and is an important military point. It has an arsenal and extensive barracks.

Airmen Again Active.
London, Aug. 27.—Refugees from the scene of the fighting along Mons report that airmen took a prominent part in directing a German artillery attack on the Belgian positions.

Report Namur Taken.
Berlin, via Sarville, Long Island, Aug. 27.—All the forts at Namur have fallen and Longwy, near the Luxembourg border, has been captured, after a resolute defense. The French forces which attacked the German crown prince's army have been repulsed. Upper Alsace is free of the enemy, except points to the westward of Kolmar.

Contrary Statement.
London, Aug. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Ostend credits a Belgian officer with the statement that the Namur forts are still holding out, and that the German aeroplanes hovered over the British position and their pilots signalled the German batteries by means of a disk swung at the end of a line.

Planned Defeat.
The Ostend correspondent of the London Daily Express in a dispatch published in London this morning quoted a Belgian officer to the effect that it has been decided last Monday not to defend Lille, and that on Tuesday the mayor published a proclamation announcing the evacuation of the French troops and the transformation of the town into an undefended place.

"All the Gendarmes were disarmed and steps were taken to deliver the city with all its riches up to the Germans," this officer declared. "Yesterday the available treasure was removed."

QUEEN'S BROTHER TO LEAD BRITISH ARMY

Prince Alexander of Teck, brother of Queen Mary and the future governor-general of Canada, is going to lead British troops on the foreign battlefields.

KIAO CHOW PLACED UNDER A BLOCKADE; NO TROOPS LANDED

Japanese Attack on German Territory May Be Delayed for a Number of Days.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Tsing Tau, Aug. 27.—There is no evidence here today of the landing of the Japanese troops in the Kiao Chow territory.

It is believed that the heavy rains, which will deter the Japanese attack for many days. All native shipping in Kiao Chow has been suspended.

Japs Declare Blockade.
Vice Admiral Sadakichi Kato from his flagship the battleship Suwo, sent a wireless message to Governor Myer Waldeck this morning declaring a blockade of the leased territory of Kiao Chow. Later the Japanese warships appeared outside the harbor and shelled a small island off the coast which was not occupied by the Germans.

The German governor notified Wilbur Peck, American consul, at Kiao Chow, that he had twenty-four hours to leave if he so desired, but Mr. Peck, however, elected to remain.

Recall Austrian Ambassador.
Tokio, Aug. 27.—The Austrian ambassador, Baron Muller De Szentgyorffy, has been recalled.

RUSSIAN ARMIES BEAT GERMANS IN PRUSSIA

Czar's War Office Makes Statement Today—Advance Continues Without Opposition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Petersburg, Aug. 27.—The following official communication was made public here today:

"Our offensive both in east Prussia and Galicia developed increasing success on August 25. The Germans hastily retreated everywhere toward Königsberg and Allenstein."

In Galicia our troops are marching rapidly on Lemberg. They are attacking the city from the north. Our cavalry has pursued the enemy everywhere on our line, our advance frequently engaging the Austrians, who each time has been beaten and routed."

Russian Advance.
An official statement issued by the war office this afternoon says:

"The German troops returned from the region of Masuria in east Prussia after the Russian victory. A Russian advance is unretarded in that country which presents difficulties and the outlet of which to the west was closed today. It is confirmed that 100 cannon were taken from the enemy."

UNIFIED SOCIALIST BODY IN FRANCE NOW

Death of Late Jean Juarez Brings About Reformation in Organization—Comment is Favorable.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, Aug. 27.—The entry of Jules Guesde and Marcel Sembat, the former a socialist and the latter a united socialist deputy, to the leadership of the socialists of France in succession to the late Jean Juarez, has unified the party. The change is favorably commented upon by all parties in France and particularly the socialists themselves.

TEMPER RUNS WILD; PAYS A HEAVY FINE

James Fanning Assessed $100 for "Beating Up" Jacob Kehofer, a La Prairie Farmer.

James Fanning, a farm hand, found to his grief in the municipal court this morning that allowing pugilistic ambitions and a fiery temper to get the best of good judgment, very costly. For beating Jacob Kehofer, a farmer in La Prairie, fifty-six years of age, a brilliant colored optic, a split lip and a fist bruise, Fanning was obliged to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and costs amounting to $104.65.

Fanning was arrested by Deputy Sheriff W. E. Dulin and when charged with assault and battery before Judge Maxfield this morning, Fanning pleaded guilty. It is alleged that Fanning, who is a young man, had words with Kehofer, then the former was working in the harvest field on Kehofer's farm. It was too hot to fight out in the field and in the evening when the men were going to supper Fanning accosted the farm owner and felled him with a blow that blackened and greatly enlarged Kehofer's eye. Not being content with that, Fanning tried for a knockout with a right hand, which he severely punched his fist rival.

After Fanning, through his attorney, Thomas S. Nolan, entered a plea of guilty to the charge, testimony was taken to ascertain the seriousness of the offense. George G. Sutherland appeared as prosecuting lawyer. Several witnesses were called to the stand, whose testimony was read out the warrant's charges. The fine and cost were paid by Fanning.

AFRICAN HOLDINGS OF WARRING NATIONS

Colonies of European Powers Three Times Greater Than Continental United States—Possessions All Wealthy.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The African possessions and protectorates of the European powers now at war are more than three times as large as continental United States. There are more than three times as large as all of Europe now plunged in war, and are eleven times larger than England, France, Germany and Belgium, which control them, says the National Geographic Society, at Washington, D. C., in a statement issued here today. They occupy 9,667,531 of Africa's 11,513,000 square miles.

"The largest individual holder of African territory is France, with 3,812,000 square miles, more than a million and a half of which is the Sahara Desert," says the Society's statement. "England controls 3,618,245 square miles; Belgium, with Belgian Congo as its sole possession, 2,347,000 square miles; Germany, 1,035,056 square miles. These figures make surprising contrasts with those of the European holdings of these countries. European France consists of 237,054 square miles; England, 231 square miles; Belgium, 11,373 square miles, and Germany, 208,778 square miles.

"England leads in the population of her African dependencies, with a total of 49,553,300 inhabitants, more than two million of whom are Europeans. The bulk of her white population is in the Union of South Africa, which consists of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal and Orange Free State, in which dwell nearly 1,500,000 'foreigners.' There are approximately 40,000,000 people living in French African possessions, more than a million of whom are white. The center of France's white population is Algeria, where nearly 800,000 Europeans and 5,000,000 natives live. There are 18,000,000 people in Belgian Congo, 5,465 of whom are white, and 12,265,500 German subjects in her dependencies, of whom nearly 20,000 are Europeans. Thirteen thousand of these live in German Southwest Africa.

"The natural resources of many of these African possessions are among the richest in the world. The Union of South Africa, under British control, exported in 1910 $154,503,000 in gold and $40,199,000 in diamonds. The imports and exports of Algeria, a French hold, amounted to $233,000,000 in 1912. Belgian Congo's exports now pass the $15,000,000 mark annually, while Germany's colonies are sending to other countries about $25,000,000 worth of products annually.

"The principal British possessions in Africa are the East Africa Protectorate, Bechuanaland, Rhodesia, the Union of South Africa, Northern and Southern Nigeria, Gold Coast, Uganda Protectorate, Somaliland, and Nyasaland. France numbers among her possessions Algeria, Tunis, Ivory Coast, Dahomey, Congo, Madagascar, Senegal and the Somali Coast. Germany controls Togo, Kamerun, German Southwest Africa and German East Africa.

British Cruiser High Flyer Sinks Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, Former Passenger Ship.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Aug. 27, 4:12 p. m.—The Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse has been sunk off the west coast of Africa by the British cruiser High Flyer. The Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse was one of the palatial steamers of the North German Lloyd line. At the outbreak of the war she was converted into an armed cruiser, and since has been reported active in searching for British merchantmen. She had a tonnage of 14,349 and was built in 1897. She was 626 feet long with a beam of 66 feet.

200,000 RUSSIANS BEATEN IN BATTLE

Newspaper Correspondent Estimates Number in Czar's Army Defeated at Krasnik, Russian Poland.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, Aug. 26, via London, Aug. 27, 7:15 a. m.—The correspondent of the local Anzeiger and the Tageblatt at Austrian headquarters estimated the strength of the Russian forces beaten at Krasnik, a town of Russian Poland, at four or five army corps, or possibly 200,000 men. Two Russian corps which formed the advance guards were on August twenty-third repulsed from the heights of Krasnik and Frammel.

Sanguinary battle occurred on the route to Lubin and on the heights and in the forest along the small River Chodel, which were only finally decided on August 25. The battle was fought in a difficult country which was full of forests.

Russians Advancing.
London, Aug. 27.—It is officially announced, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company, that the Russian advance in Prussia is proceeding with irresistible force. The Germans have retreated to Osterode, a town of East Prussia, 100 miles west of Dünaburg.

DIRECTORS MEET TO DISCUSS FACTORIES

Commercial Club Has Several Proposals Up For Consideration.

The directors of the Commercial club met at the Grand hotel this noon by special call to consider several factory propositions. One of the proposals was for a glove factory, and the third a rug factory. All will be investigated and if favorable will receive further consideration. The directors of the Commercial club will be invited at some future date to dine with the Commercial club directors to consider a combined work in the county along agricultural lines with a view to assisting the country committee in its work. Arrangements were left in the hands of J. A. Craig.

CANADA AND CHINA TALK IMMIGRATION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 27.—Negotiations are in progress today between the Canadian government and the Chinese Republic with a view to an agreement for control of Chinese immigration into Canada. President Yuan Shi Kai is understood to have intimated that he would endorse such a compact as the directors of the country are admitted into the Dominion yearly. He would like, however, to have the present $500 head tax paid by the Chinese abolished. The opinion here is that an agreement of this kind would facilitate the negotiation of a similar arrangement with the Imperial government regarding Hindu immigration.

BETHMANN-HOLLWEG, MOLTKE AND TIRPITZ ARE KAISER'S CHIEF AIDS IN GREAT WAR

Here are the men upon whom Emperor William most depends in the present war. Von Bethmann-Hollweg is the Imperial chancellor of Germany; Grand Admiral von Tirpitz is in supreme command of the German navy, while Count von Moltke is in charge of the operations of the German forces on land.

HERE'S GATEWAY TO POWERFUL FORTIFICATIONS OF ANTWERP

Behind this gateway, erected in 1864, are the almost impregnable fortifications of the city of Antwerp, the most strongly fortified city of Belgium. With the German forces almost within shadow of the gate, the first really great engagement of the war may take place here soon.

SPORTS

BOSTON GRAPPLING TIME CAUSES SLUMP WITH GIANTS FOR LEAD IN NATIONAL

Two Players Who Jumped to Feds From Boston Braves Now Kicking Them—Sporting Notes.

By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, Aug. 27.—If there ever were two ball players in the world who have a legitimate excuse for kicking themselves all over a ball lot, Vin Campbell and Bill Rariden, outfielder and catcher respectively on the Indianapolis Federal League baseball club are the ones.
These two athletes—both stars—last year were members of the Boston National League club. Campbell didn't play in 1913, having quit the national pastime in a huff the season previous, but he still belonged to the Braves and at the beginning of the season he was importuned by George Stallings, the Braves' manager, to join the club. Rariden was a member of the club last year. He caught the majority of Boston's games and was ranked as one of the classic receivers in the National League. During last winter, the federal league agents whispered alluring offers into the ears of both Campbell and Rariden. The athletes listened and began to fall as the Fed agents named sums much in excess of the salaries they were receiving at Boston.

New Boston last year was a down and out with no show of getting in to the world's series money. And the prospects for 1914 were not much brighter at the time the new league's agents were after Rariden and Campbell. And so it was not strange that Rariden and Campbell should jump to the outlaw organization with a chance to make more money.
But now with the Boston Braves knocking the props from under the Giants and being picked by many to win the National League flag, it is a different picture. Rariden and Campbell groan every time they pick up a paper and read that Boston has won another game. A great many people are picking Stallings out of five classes but they did not win the tennis championship of the world. Maurice E. McLoughlin, the titan-haired son of the U. S. A. who beat Wilding and Brooks in the St. Louis cup but we've lost the tennis championship of the world.
McLoughlin's victories, coming only after desperately fought games, were a great blow to the invaders. Not a day went by when he was not the subject of a newspaper article. He was hailed as a hero. The only thing that surprised about him is that he managed to win one set from him in the singles. As a true sportsman he is the end of the limit. We've got the tennis cup but we've lost the tennis championship of the world.
"Which would you rather have won," he was asked. "Well, it's a very nice cup," he replied. "We have it in our possession for the time being, but I don't like it. I don't like it, I wish we could have beaten McLoughlin. To be known as the greatest tennis player in the world is a great honor."

Frank Chance continues to bring his Yankees along at a pleasing clip. The P. L. has whipped a real ball club out of the odds and ends that were wished on him when he took over the reins of the New York American League club. Right now he has a fighting bunch of ball players, no particular stars but a good machine that will last a long time. The present infield of Madden at first, Boone at second, Pritchard at short and McLeod at third is putting up a bang up game. Madden's hitting is improving every day and on the fielding end of the game is away above the average. Boone at second has been a disappointment. He is not hitting and he is not playing. The youngsters are hitting them in the ditches, when they are needed and there is very little likelihood of his being displaced as the keystone sack guard.

True Wealth.
There is no wealth but life, including all its powers of love, of joy and of admiration. That country is the richest which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings; that man is the richest who, having perfected the functions of his own life to the utmost, has also the widest helpful influence.—Ruskin.

Something new in the way of a ball player has been picked up by the St. Louis Cardinals. They've signed a pitcher who wears glasses. This is regarded by many as another evidence of the alarming scarcity of ball players since the advent of the Feds. It is getting to be harder and harder, it would seem, to sign a player who is all there, sound and able to run bases without crutches. In spite of his poor eyesight, however, Lee Meadows, which is the new pitcher's name, had been pitching mighty good ball for the Durham team of the North Carolina league and the Cardinals seem to think they have landed a real find. It's easy to see that Meadows upon his appearance in big league circles will be the recipient of many a rude jest from leather-lunged fans. And should he be so unlucky as to give more than a pass or two in an inning lots of unkind things will be said about his specs.

Charley Carr's unfortunate venture with a baseball academy has caused many to feel that he wasn't as wise as he had always been thought to be. Previous to starting the school in Texas he had been regarded as one of the sages of the game. He is still respected though, and a veteran player of wisdom and experience and so his opinion was recently sought regarding the Feds. He was asked to tell what he felt would be the outcome of the Fed league, especially now that he was among them. After mature reflection, Carr announced that as he viewed the matter the Feds would be either a distinct success or a dismal failure.

George Buras, popular outfielder with the Giants, has been giving Charley Herzog, the Red manager, a hot race for the base stealing honors of the National League.

Mischapen Dog.

A French scientist possesses a dog which, having been born without hind legs, has supplied nature's deficiency and has learned to walk and even to run quite swiftly on its two front legs. It holds the upright position with the greatest ease, turns, stops, stands resting, eats its food, etc., with its hind quarters poised over its head. It is said not to be more wearied by exercise than an ordinary dog.

CHILDREN COMPETE FOR TRACK HONORS

TWO HUNDRED PLAYGROUND YOUNGSTERS TAKE PART IN EVENTS WEDNESDAY.

GOOD MARKS RECORDED

Competition Was Keen in Various Events and Excellent Showing Made By Youthful Athletes.

Over two hundred boys and girls took part in the first annual track and field meet held yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds under the direction of the playground instructors. The meet was the first of its kind to be held here and was a great success from all standpoints. Both boys and girls took an active interest in the events, all of which were closely contested. Despite the fact that it was the initial meet several good marks were made.
The meet was not held for competition between the four schools, but was for individual honors. The winners of second and third places in the events were awarded ribbons and also medals. Five points to the winner of first place, three to the winner of second and one to the winner of third. In the fourteen to eighteen year old class of boys L. Webster of the Washington school was high point winner with 14 points to his credit. Kenneth Slicker led in the twelve to fourteen year class with 10 points, and O. Morgan in the under twelve class with 11 points.

In the girls' events in the under fourteen class Agnes Dora was first with 10 points, followed closely by Margaret Nolan. In the older class Winifred Schickler took high honors with 10 points to her credit.
Several marks which are worthy of note were made by entries. Kenneth Slicker made four feet four inches in the high jump, which is a good mark for a boy of his class. He also made the seventy-five yard dash in fast time, running away from his competitors.
L. Webster jumped four feet eight inches in the eighteen year old class and won the event handsily. He was also a winner in the broad jump with a leap of fifteen feet two inches. The events were started promptly at two o'clock and were held under the direction of ten officials. They were Prof. H. C. Buell, Coach Gay W. Curtis, of the local high school, Emerson Jackson, Ralph Newton, James Savage and five directors of the playground system.

Following are the events and the winners:
Basket Ball Far Throw—O. Morgan, 1st; C. Hick, 2nd; K. Hick, 3rd. Distance, 32.4 feet.

AMUSEMENTS

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Brewster's Millions."
Peter L. Myers who controls the rights in this territory for the products of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, the most recent output of which is "Brewster's Millions," with Edward Ables, announces that this famous comedy drama will be shown first in this territory at Myers Theatre tonight. Special orchestra will accompany this picture.

"The Trey O' Hearts."
The first episode in three parts, "The Flower O' the Flame," of the "Trey O' Hearts" will be shown on the motion picture screen at Myers Theatre Friday evening and will continue in weekly installments each Friday for several weeks to come. This gripping, realistic story is from the pen of Louis Joseph Vance, author of the Brass Bowl, The Black Bag and many other popular stories. Nothing that he has ever written has taken such a hold on the public fancy as this picture. It is a picture of the original film and most of the situations are most thrilling. Arrangements have been made to print the story in serial form in The Gazette one week ahead of its appearance on the screen so that the public might more easily appreciate the thrilling parts in the picture when they are shown. Special orchestra will accompany this picture.

Myers Theatre Being Re-Decorated.
A large corps of decorators have been at work on the interior of the Myers Theatre since it was closed two weeks ago. Manager Myers has spent a great many dollars in re-decorating the theatre both inside and out. He states that everything will be spick and span for the opening attraction, "Brewster's Millions" starting tonight.

AT THE APOLLO.
Popular Mary Pickford will be seen at the Apollo again next Monday in "Tess of the Storm Country." Mischievous Mary is always good no matter what the play. Next Wednesday "The Upper Floor" will be presented with the following Wednesday will witness that national success, "The Little Rebel." A feature photo play has been booked for the near future entitled, "Should a Woman Tell?" in which will be featured Miss N. A. Tarnows, actress by appointment to the Imperial Russian court. This is positively the most amazingly sensational five-reel photo drama of domestic problems ever produced in Europe or America. The cast consists of the same as the schoolboy's tube for blowing puttyballs. Even the most expert natives can shoot only a short distance as compared with firearms, but their accuracy is wonderful. Mr. Cobb gives the following description of the shooting of a deer:

"A good sized buck walked out of the corn and stopped, exposing to us its full broadside as we lay some thirty feet away. Our hunter fired. The animal gave a slight start as it felt the prick of the arrow on its flank, and turned partly around, sniffing the air for a scent, and looking around as if searching for the insect that had bitten him. Detecting nothing, he stood still and unmolested. At the end of a minute or so, his head dropped a little, as he were sleepy. The hunter stepped out in plain sight. The deer looked at him and moved forward, not away from him, a few steps and stopped. He showed no fear, but simply curiosity. My companion and I rose and the three of us walked quietly within reach of him. He made no movement to run away, but watched us intently, and shifted his position a little. His movements seemed perfectly easy and natural. Absence of fear seemed the only observable change, until at the end of three minutes or more; then he laid down, not falling, but as naturally as a cow or sheep who goes into a pool perhaps fifty feet across. The men divided into two parties, one going up and the other down the stream a few rods. Then they entered the stream and throwing the water with their feet and with sticks, returned, driving all the fish before them into the pool."

BRAZIL FISHERMEN AND HUNTERS LAZY

Communication to National Geographic Society Explains Methods—Poison Used.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Fishing and hunting with poison is practiced by the natives of Brazil and other tropical American countries, is described in a communication to the National Geographic Society at Washington, D. C., by Dewey Austin Cobb. "Brazil is certainly the lazy fishermen's paradise," he says. "It was only after two years' residence among the secretive Indians that I was reluctantly obliged to learn their condone sufficiently to be permitted to join them on one of their fishing excursions. We followed the stream for half a mile or so, to where it spread out into a pool perhaps fifty feet across. The men divided into two parties, one going up and the other down the stream a few rods. Then they entered the stream and throwing the water with their feet and with sticks, returned, driving all the fish before them into the pool."

Meantime one of the women had great some of the mysterious "barbasco" roots, resembling horseradish, into about two quarts of water. This was thrown into the pool at various points. In about two minutes we began to see minute fish come to the surface, belly up, remain a few seconds and then disappear. In ten minutes all the small fry were on the surface, apparently dead, and larger and larger ones began to go through the same performance. With a long-handled scoop-net, the leader nearly filled a bushel basket with fish from eight to twelve inches long in half an hour.

"Some of the fish were broiled, but I hesitated about eating them. The leader, surmising my reason, took several spoonfuls of the poisoned water and mixing it with a dipper full of water, drank it down. It had not the slightest effect upon him. Never did I enjoy broiled fish more. To all appearance, the fish remaining in the stream except the smaller ones, were affected by the poison only through their respiratory organs, and experienced no lasting injury. In hunting, the arrows, which are dipped in poison, consist of a point of wood or bone not more than an inch long, and the size of a toothpick, to which is attached a little tuft of hairy fiber of the silk cotton tree.

Hookworm Disease.

The hookworm disease is so named from a small parasite which fastens itself in the intestines and preys upon the system. The name hookworm relates to the peculiar structure of the parasite (which has been named Necator Americanus) and the disease is attributed to low nutrition and unsanitary conditions.

A TRIFLE HARSH.
Many eastern exchanges are apt to be a trifle harsh in their criticism of the present war and the causes and possible effects. The consensus of opinion, however, is that it is a senseless struggle brought about by the pride and ambition of the continent and that its results will be far-reaching in effect. It will doom militarism no matter which of the allied forces win, but the general trend of the results will spell disaster to the nations involved.

That the United States will benefit greatly, as a nation, is most certain, but at what a sacrifice. We are a conglomerate people. Our citizenship is recruited from foreign immigration. Germany has furnished its share. It has sent sturdy sons and daughters to this shore who have established their families here, and the second and third generation of their descendants, while not bound to the "fatherland" by the ties of citizenship, still have the racial pride in their nationality. France, Russia, England, Italy, Austria, in fact all Europe is represented and it is not fair and just to those former residents of those countries or to their descendants to pass snap judgment upon this great struggle and its cause.

One eastern exchange takes up the war problem under the heading, "A Dynastic Necessity," and says: "Much has been said lately of the 'military necessity' of the violation of the neutrality of Belgium as for instance, regarded by Germany as such a necessity. It is even contended, by the British, that the violation of any treaty expressly designed to provide against the event of war is a military necessity if this precedent holds. This view is shared by the civilized world, which thinks that treaties are especially intended to cover emergencies, and do not admit of exceptions."

"But the present war seems to have been in its larger aspect a dynastic necessity. Over-taxation, the loss of social democracy, the loss of the power of commercial and financial interests, threatened the supremacy of a number of families in Europe, notably those of Hohenzollern, Hapsburg and Romanoff. It became necessary, therefore, to convince the people that sons who were merely paying taxes of the divine right of these hereditary rulers."

"Note particularly the leaders of the three German armies of the west. They are the German Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and the Grand Duke Albrecht of Wurttemberg. These are princes of reigning houses. Outside of social democracy, to say nothing of the little kingdoms of 'five by seven,' of which Bavaria is the largest, Wurttemberg comes about next, and it is to be expected that Saxony and Baden will be represented in the record of victories before long."

is no joke for an American who was rich enough to take a trip to Europe by himself or with his family, traveling in all the luxury afforded by these floating palaces.

"What a difference between the going and the return! How little did those gaily starting on the voyage imagine what was in store for them. Perhaps they stood on the upper deck looking down at the place where the poorer classes had to be housed for the journey. Perhaps they thought of the terrible of this crowding; and when they, in the center of the ship, did not feel its tossing, they wondered at the sensations of those below when the prow of the great ship buried itself in the sea or tossed itself upward on a high wave."

"Now some of these people know what the present day steamer means. The men, women and children, will be much to discuss in this connection for many months to come. Perhaps they will seek to establish reforms. At any rate, they saw as crowded conditions as can be imagined. And glad they are, no doubt, to get home at all, though the voyage the steamer must have taught them a lasting impression, which will teach them to be sympathetic to those in need, and to realize that money is by no means everything in this life."

"No doubt many changes will be made in the steamer accommodations because of this enforced visit by men of means. Such things often have their beneficial as well as their phases. In some instances, where ships had to travel hundreds of miles out of their course, the north the hardships from exposure must have left serious effects; but the people of this country can be grateful that the administration acted and is acting with all the promptness in its power to help American tourists to return to the United States, and the part of the ship in which they had to travel of the strange vicissitudes of human existence."

ATTEND PRIMARIES.
One of the essentials to good government is the selection by the people of good, capable men for public office. One of the first steps in making this selection is the primary which comes on Tuesday next at which time candidates will be placed in nomination for various state, county and legislative offices. In order that good men may be selected it behooves every voter in the county to attend the primaries and cast their ballot for the men they feel will best carry out their wishes.

If we are to have good men in office after January 1, they must be nominated at the primary election, and when there is a full turnout at the primary, the best men will be nominated.

All good authorities are agreed that the highest type of civil government is attained when all the people take an interest in the machinery of the election and that industry flourishes most rapidly when good men neglect their civic duties.

At the primary election, all parties are to select candidates for the different positions and the humblest citizen can go to the polls and "have his say" as to the man who wants to become the party candidate for any office. The vote of the laboring man, the farmer or the clerk weighs as much as the vote of the wealthy man.

From United States senator down to registrar of deeds, there is a fine list of candidates to choose from. All that is necessary is for the voter to inform himself as to the different names and then later his ticket, and mark it so that he gets his choice. Then he can feel that he has done his duty and has performed his part towards good government.

Foundation of Oil Industry Founded 55 Years Ago Today

Fifty-five years ago today the first liquid was found owing to the driven oil well in the United States upon the ground. It was the beginning of one of the greatest of modern industries to give up its precious fluid, tries.

The event marked an epoch in the illumination of the world and the states are annually producing nearly a billion barrels of oil. The two-thirds of the crude petroleum containing of that day were used throughout the world. The chief illuminants of that day were sperm, or whale, oil, retailing at $2.25 a gallon; "camphene," a derivative of turpentine and very liable to explosion; "coal-oil," obtained from coal and Scotch barhead, selling at about $2.00 a gallon. How to light the home and workshop cheaply was a serious economic problem. It was that argument that influenced two Connecticut financiers to advance $1,000 to "Col. Edwin L. Drake, who proposed to drill an oil well near Pithole, Pa. where for generations the local residents had been gathering oil as it floated on the surfaces of creeks and ponds. Drake began work in 1857. His early attempts resulted in failure. His financiers refused more money, and he might as well drill for whiskey," remarked one rural spectator. When on the verge of starvation, Drake finally secured financial aid from Pennsylvania and resumed his operations. Months passed. Several drilling methods proved fruitless, until he sank a six-inch iron pipe. At a depth of 71 feet the pioneer finally found traces of oil, and the next morning, than 700 different varieties.

Antwerp—A city in Belgium regarded as a rallying ground for the Belgian army in case it was overpowered in its principal fortified stronghold. Although sixty miles from the sea it is still one of the greatest seaports of Europe, because the broad and deep Scheldt river gives it an excellent outlet. Its population is about 125,000. Under Emperor Charles V it is said to have been the most populous city on the continent. At the middle of the sixteenth century it had a population estimated at 125,000. The great fairs held there attracted the merchants of the civilized world. Under the Spanish regime it declined, and in twenty years fell to a population of 60,000. The Treaty of Westphalia closed the Scheldt to the sea-going vessels, and it was not re-opened until the French did so in 1799. Napoleon undertook to revivify the city, but it was surrendered to the English in 1814. It began to grow again, but was almost ruined in the military operations of 1830 and there- after, Netherlands retained the right to levy navigation dues on the Scheldt, which laid a heavy hand on Antwerp in 1863, when it was communal-ly by the payment of about 7,000,000 francs held out against the Germans for the city and river are defended by a number of fortresses and by ramparts water, eight miles long. Unto Him That Hath.

Mr. Richard Meade it was now—no, Dick. If Reynolds had followed the activities of the times he would have seen his friend's signature over articles of import in an enterprising weekly. For the reporter had abandoned his newspaper work and joined the staff of a powerful publication. He was a valued man, a "muck-raker" and crops were fine.

If a year had wrought so much to the detriment of Bob, it had been, on the other hand, equally beneficial to Dick. In the clearness of eye, directness of manner and quiet reserve, one read accomplishment of purpose. Dick was a success, and the reward of success was manifest in his outward appearance, and his environment. He sat at a desk as big as Brand's in a suite as finely furnished and as richly carpeted. He looked out upon a busy thoroughfare, one of the cross streets in New York's colony of publishing houses. He inspected the passing throng, not with a restless spirit of inquiry and conjecture, but with calm observation and quiet analysis. Dick was still a socialist, but a socialist of deeds, not words. He had learned to subdue his direct frontal attacks on the enemy and to take more credit unto himself and his kind. In this respect he had outdistanced his employers and his writings attracted serious attention from the men who think.

When Dick thought of Bob and his woe, he did not surrender to Brand's did not scold at his friend or rail at his trader. He pitied Reynolds, not only for what he had done but for what he was—a palpable victim of the system's way. And the very worst kind of a victim, for at first the system had merely stolen a part of the man's earning power and now it had stolen the man himself. The reporter knew beyond a doubt that the false premises on which Bob had founded his new prosperity preaged only one thing—collapse. And unlike Reynolds, he had not simply wondered and dreamed. He had watched. He had kept himself informed about Bob, ready when the inevitable should come, to extend the needed aid.

Dick rose now, put on a well fitting tweed coat and walked leisurely over to the subway. He got off at Wall Street and made his way to the offices of a prominent broker. He gave his card to one of the clerks and in a moment was shown into the private sanctum of the firm's head.

"Hello, Meade," the broker greeted. "You look prosperous. What can I do for you, business?"

The young writer smiled and twirled his stick.

"No," he replied, "I guess you've had about enough for one day. Broke pretty good for you, didn't it?"

In amount of trade, yes. That's the only way it ever breaks good for us. Commissions are all we ask, Meade. Never speculate."

The broker pressed his lips firmly together as if he feared they might part and curl into a treacherous grin.

"Tut, tut," his caller cautioned, "you might make it seldom, to say the least. But he changed his bantering tone to one of sharp businesslike instruction.

"Hennings," he said, "time is money to you and to me, too. I know something and I want to know a little more. Bob Reynolds speculates through your house. There was an awful blump in Consolidated Wire today. How badly was he stung on it?"

"Why, that's confidential, Meade. You don't expect me to tell my customers' business to everyone who inquires about it?"

Dick got up and walked over to the window. He commanded attention this way, such a way that Hennings was unable to evade his look.

"Don't quibble with me, Hennings," Dick commanded. "You know that my inquiries into Reynolds' business aren't calculated to do him harm. I have heard something which makes me think he was caught pretty bad today. Now it's yes, or no. If you don't want to enlighten me, say so. Don't stall."

"That means," said the broker, "if I don't answer that you'll find out somewhere else. Well, then, he was hit a plenty. About forty thousand, and if I know anything about Mr. Reynolds' affairs, he was cleaned."

"All on one stock?" Meade asked.

"One was enough," replied the broker. "Consolidated Wire did the trick."

"Quite an unexpected drop, wasn't it?" the young journalist commented.

"Oh, by the way," he added lightly, "Mr. Brand, of the Hudson company, has been trading in Consolidated. I suppose he took a tumble, too."

Hennings laughed outright.

"Yes, he took a tumble all right, but he took it first—before the drop—and sold. Stocks go up on a rising market," he said placidly. "They go so far and then they usually go down."

"And very reasonable of them, too," Dick feigned no surprise at Brand's good fortune. He got up and walked about the room, inspecting, in turn, the mural decorations. Then quite casually he fingered a pad of paper on the broker's desk and toyed with a convenient pencil. Unwittingly he drew some little lines on the paper, two vertical, and across them, two horizontal ones. Then he drew them again—a double cross.

Hennings, a keen observer of this artistic trifling, reddened slightly, but his immobile features underwent no change. He watched the writer reach for his hat and neither spoke. As Dick opened the door the broker offered no commonplace good-by. His words might have seemed somewhat irrelevant, but for the little cross Dick had scratched upon the pad.

"Meade," he said, without rising, "you're wasting your time at that magazine stuff. Why don't you come down here and get in with the live ones? You could make your fortune in the street beyond a doubt."

"Thanks," answered the journalist complacently. "Coming from you that's quite a compliment. But even a broker can't ignore some truths. If you don't mind I'll give you a motto for Wall Street. 'Unto him that hath shall be given and from him that hath shall be taken even more than he hath.' A slight revision of the original text but for the purpose a just one. Good-by, Hennings."

"Wait!" called the broker.

Dick turned.

"Wait. I didn't know Reynolds was such a friend of yours. Maybe he isn't fat. Maybe we can fix him up a bit."

"I'm afraid not," Dick answered. "From what I know and from what I've learned now, I fear he's past fixing."

He went out into the crowd. It was four o'clock. Wall and Broad streets were filled with a hurrying, scurrying throng.

Dick, in no mood for haste, was shoved and jostled, as he hugged the sides of buildings in his more leisurely progress toward the subway. When he saw the mobs pouring down into the tube at Wall and at Dey streets he wormed his way northward along Broadway till he found a taxi and headed for the Thirty-fourth street ferry.

The boat made its slip at Long Island City and he caught a train for Bayside where the Reynolds lived. Where they lived, but would live no more. Poor Bob! he thought, and poor Jane! For his heart went out to Jane as much as to his friend. She was but a girl, blinded by the glamor with which the trap had been baited and Bob was a man who had stepped boldly into it.

The end had come quicker than Dick thought it would. It was but a matter of time, he knew, but he would have given Bob more than a year.

He learned that the Reynolds' house was some thirty minutes walk from the station. He could find no means of conveyance, so he set out on foot.

He took off his coat and as he handed it to her, stared in a quizzical way. At last the truth dawned on him.

"Why, it's Frieda," he exclaimed. "Bless me, what a change."

The girl, not oblivious or averse to the infection in his surprised greeting, courtied an acknowledgement.

"Change is right, Mr. Dick. You didn't know me, did you?"

"I should say I didn't," he concurred, with a smile. "Why, you're all dressed up like one of those talking dolls."

She laughed and turned around for full inspection.

"The very latest model," she informed him. "Do you like it?"

"It's a dream," the young writer acknowledged. "But never go back to Staten Island with that rig on. There are 1,200 soldiers at the fort over there and the government doesn't want them all to desert at once."

"Don't worry, Mr. Dick. I'm not going back to Staten Island. Mrs. Reynolds gave me a chance when she came over here and you bet I took it. It took me some time to get on to my

Bob took out his cigarette case. "Sit down, Dick," he urged as he tendered the case. "You haven't cut these out, too, have you?"

"No, not yet. I've tried cigars, but it's no go. The little pills have their charm, Bob, and they're one thing I place before dignity."

They lighted their cigarettes and puffed for a moment in silence. Some element of restraint seemed to hover over them despite the sincere friendliness of their greeting. Reynolds spoke first.

"Dick," he said, "I'm mighty glad to see you and you know it. But tell me just one thing. You haven't come to lecture, have you?"

"Why, the other inquired with a laugh, 'do you need it?'"

"I might need it, but I don't want it, and least of all from you. Let's keep off that stuff, will you?"

"Maybe. But you seem to be hunting trouble. Wait till I start some."

Reynolds poured out some of the brandy that Frieda brought. Dick, watching, saw that his hand shook perceptibly. Evidently there was something more than the cold that made the stimulant welcome.

The old Bob of the bungalow days who worked methodically and spoke with quiet meaning was no more. Here was a product of the game, or rather, a victim of it. But a man who had lost $40,000 in a day, which was, perhaps, his all, could not be expected to walk a tight rope. This Dick knew and he felt the commiseration that he longed to express. But he bided his time. Somehow he didn't feel much more at his ease than Bob did.

"Where's Mrs. Reynolds?" he asked.

"Do you expect her home?"

Again Reynolds' brows contracted, but he forced a smile.

"Mrs. Reynolds? You're rather formal, aren't you? Jane's gone to the theater with the Brands and a party. She won't be home till after midnight. That reminds me," he added, "I haven't had any dinner. How about you?"

"I had a late luncheon," Dick replied. "Don't bother about me. If you're going to have something I might take a bite. Something like one of our old time feeds, Bob."

His host pushed the button again.

"Got anything to eat in the house, Frieda?"

"Certainly, sir. But we didn't hardly expect you'd be home. I'm afraid it won't be much to offer—Mr. Dick."

"Mr. Dick doesn't want much, Frieda, and I don't either. Just fix up some coffee and something cold."

He turned and poured more brandy.

"I feel a little nervous tonight, Dick," he said apologetically. "Sorry you won't join me, but I wouldn't urge for the world."

Make your little habitable winter and summer by using Bestwall

An attractive interior furnished with Bestwall—no unsightly painted strips.

The modern substitute for lath and plaster

If Bestwall had been discovered before lath and plaster was used, every house and building would have walls and ceilings of Bestwall and they would be better structures for it. They would be protected from fire. Their walls and ceilings would never crack, break, chip, warp or buckle.

Bestwall House Lining

They would be warmer in winter and cooler in summer, and always dry, for Bestwall is a non-conductor of heat and cold and resists dampness. Much time and money would have been saved, for Bestwall is nailed directly to the studs and its initial cost is lower than lath and plaster, with practically no upkeep cost. These are only a few of the improvements that Bestwall brings. For further information ask the following:

ORCUTT'S DEATH IS PLAIN SUICIDE CASE

Milton Barber Punctured Head With 22 Calibre Revolver—Two Guns Found.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, Aug. 27.—An inquest on the remains of the late O. E. Orcutt was held by Deputy Sheriff Arrington yesterday forenoon. Dr. E. E. Canfield made an examination and found that death resulted from a bullet which entered the side of his head and was fired from a thirty-two calibre revolver, the same being found beside the body. It was another of the thirty-two calibre, both the property of the deceased and had been in his possession for months. Mr. Orcutt ate dinner with his wife about twelve o'clock Tuesday and departed for his shop. It was supposed, but not returning at the usual hour in the evening. Mrs. Orcutt became alarmed and called on her father, W. H. Wilbur, and others to make search, but the remains were not found until yesterday morning, when Mr. Wilbur and his son, George, discovered the remains in W. H. Gray's woods. When Orcutt left his home he took with him both revolvers from under his pillow of his bed, where he always kept them, and left his pocket book on a table, as must have been later. The fatal shot must have been fired early in the afternoon is the opinion of Dr. Campbell. His partner, W. H. Crandall, states that Mr. Orcutt was playing checkers and seemed to be in a contented mood during the forenoon of the day the act was committed as he had ever seen him during their long acquaintance. In fact, his wife and friends saw nothing in his appearance or conversation that day indicating that he contemplated any such act.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Mr. H. H. Babcock, of Oshkosh, has been visiting at C. E. Crandall's and W. W. Clarke's this week.

Hon. Thos. Morris, candidate for senator, made a short automobile haul, shaking visit here yesterday. S. S. Summers introduced him to our citizens.

DAILY ROAD BULLETIN.

Highway Commissioner Moore makes the following statement:

"The four mile road north of Janesville is being heavily graded and is unsafe for travel.

"Garding is started on the Footville road, Town of Plymouth.

"The Janesville-Hanover-Orfordville road in the town of Plymouth is likewise badly torn up and is impassable. Take the upper Footville road instead.

"Work is completed in the town of Beloit and the Happy Hollow bridge track between Janesville and Beloit on the east side of the river.

"The work is also completed in the towns of Milton and Harmony and also in Fulton, making good traveling for all points north of Janesville.

"The work is being done by the town of Janesville on the Indian Ford road, which is quite slippery in wet weather.

"The Affton road, town of Rock, beginning at the city limits is closed. Crushed gravel and travel must be kept off the road. Gravel will be kept off the Indian Ford road, which is quite slippery in wet weather.

"The main Janesville road in town of Lima is under construction.

"The Evansville-Janesville road in the town of Porter is under process of construction and practically impassable. Take the Magnolia road between Janesville and Evansville.

"The road in Spruce Valley are nearly completed. They are also completed in the towns of Union and Clinton. Work is under way in the town of Turtle on the Milwaukee road. The state line road has been completed. It would be advisable to take the Shoptere road between Beloit and Clinton.

"The Delavan road in the town of Bradford is impassable for anything but light travel. Notice will be given from time to time of any changes.

"CHARLES E. MOORE, Highway Commissioner."

Orfordville, Aug. 26.—Miss Jessie Hanger, who has been visiting at the home of her uncle, William Keithley, for the past two weeks, returned to her home in Indiana on Tuesday.

The Winnebago county fair at Beloit is being generously patronized by patrons from Orfordville. On the opening day there was a generous deliriousness.

Dan Mowse went to the county on Wednesday afternoon and remained to the meeting of the I. O. O. F. lodges there.

The movies at the opera house on Tuesday evening in which the "Battle of Camerod Dam" was the subject announced, did not receive a very generous patronage.

George Williams shipped several head of his Holstein cattle to Beloit on Tuesday evening and has them on exhibition at the fair there.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Wilson and family of Chicago, arrived in the village on Wednesday. Mr. Wilson spent only a few hours renewing old acquaintances, while the remainder of the family will spend a few days here before proceeding home.

Thomas Morris, republican candidate for United States senator, addressed about a dozen and a half of voters on the street of Orfordville on Wednesday morning. Neither the fact of his coming was unknown to many or there is a gross indifference as to whether or not "Tom" goes to Washington to help the senior senator pursue the politics of the United States.

A special train of six coaches passed through the village on Wednesday afternoon to be in readiness to care for the passengers going to the Burlington which opens in that city on the 27th.

MILITIA WAR SCHOOL ENCAMPMENT IS OVER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 27.—After three weeks of war study officers of the New York National Guard today broke camp and started for their homes. During the period they have been here the militia officers have received instruction in military law, infantry tactics, supply and transport, administration and field fortification, under the direction of some of Uncle Sam's best and most proficient regular army officers. Some of the instructors were from the War College in Washington. Other courses at the officers' camp this summer were in signaling and communication, sanitation and first aid and post administration and inspection.

During the three weeks, a provisional company of infantry, war strength, under command of Lieut. Thomas L. Crystal, U. S. A. was on duty as an object lesson for the student militia officers. In illustrating problems of attack and defense the company used ball ammunition, it being the belief that the use of the real thing would make the men more careful, more subservient to discipline and be a greater factor in teaching fire control.

WIDOW SUES FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Marysville, Cal., Aug. 27.—The superior court will begin trial here shortly of a $150,000 damage suit brought by the widow of the late District Attorney E. T. Maxwell against John and Ralph Durst on account of her husband's death in the hoppickers' riot on the Durst ranch at Wheatland a year ago. According to Mrs. Maxwell, the district attorney was in Wheatland on private business the day the fatal riot occurred, and was just about to leave when, Sheriff Voss, summoned to the ranch by the Dursts, arrived with a posse and seeing Maxwell, insisted that the latter accompany him. Maxwell went against his better judgment, says the widow, and was placed with the hoppickers as an individual when he was killed.

And even if you bought it through any of the regular channels of trade it would cost you at the least 50c or 75c. But through our arrangements direct with the publishers' representatives we are able to give it to you today for just

17c And One 19c by mail and one coupon

A most remarkable value considering the exclusive maps and the rare pictures of Europe's armament which it contains.

"Europe at War" shows the pictures of some of the greatest Battleships in the Naval Fleets of the world. Other pages show the Aerial Battle Fleets that are warring above the clouds. Still others show the armored automobiles of Germany—Dreadnaughts of the land.

Here also is a double page in colors showing the most carefully drawn world-map ever printed—a Mercator's Projection that should be in every home. And over farther is another double page Map in Colors showing all of Europe, showing the boundaries that are now being destroyed; showing the great forts that are now trying hopelessly to protect those boundaries; showing all the relations and inter-relations of one country to another. And besides these there are colored maps of every individual country drawn separately.

One glance at this map and you see in an instant why Germany has been pouring her soldiers by the hundreds of thousands upon the City of Liege—why she is determined to go through Belgium at any cost—why she MUST go through Belgium at any cost.

These are the Vital things in a War Atlas, and all these vital things are here.

Then there is all the important data upon the European situation which has been collected for this great book by the most famous experts in the world. When you read this array of facts, you will KNOW how history is shaping itself in that War-Ridden Continent.
